16 IRRIGATION JOBS NEAR COMPLETION - Are part of huge program
A decisive role in the rapid development of irrigation is played by the joint efforts of collective farmers in building large watering systems. For example, 160,000 collective farmers took part this year in the construction of the Ferghana Canal, Uzbekistan, and completed this 270-km. job in a month and a half. With old methods of construction the work would have taken several years.
